

ALLIGATOR WEED IS THREAT TO AGRICULTURAL LANDS

PORTERVILLE — Elimination of the recently-discovered Alligator weed before it starts to eliminate farm lands is practically the No. 1 mission of the Tulare County Agricultural Commissioner and Extension Service Farm advisors — and the battle grounds are Porterville and Visalia, where the serious weed pest is thriving in ditches.

Survey in the Porterville area shows that the weed is well established in the Pioneer ditch below Murry park, and in Porter Slough; it is being found in all the ditch systems into which Pioneer and Porter Slough water flows to a point at least five miles west of Porterville, and throughout the Pioneer system north of the city.

At Visalia the weed has been identified in Mill Creek, with the infestation extending from the west edge of the City of Visalia to the airport.

So what?

Well, in the opinion of Farm Advisor Vince Schweers, Alligator weed, from the standpoint of toughness and difficulty of control, "puts Morning Glory, Johnson grass, and Nut grass to shame."

And this weed is allowed to move out from its relatively small area of ditches, it could become such a serious threat to agriculture.

Youngsters Ride Sunday At Springville

SPRINGVILLE — Youngsters from eight years of age — or younger — through 18 years will ride for trophies and ribbons at 14th annual Junior Horse Show and Gymkhana that will be sponsored by the Springville Lions club next Sunday, October 23.

Competition will get underway at 9 a.m. and continue until late afternoon in the Springville Rodeo arena. Food and drink concessions will be operated during the day by Springville Boy Scouts.

Entries in the show's 22 events have been accepted by Emmy Kib-

EYES OF HEREFORD WORLD ARE ON PORTERVILLE FOR JUNIOR ASSN. FIELD DAY

PORTERVILLE — Eyes of the Hereford world will be on Porterville, Saturday, as the California Junior Hereford association stages a field day at the Porterville fair grounds, with the program to be presented in the baseball field area in front of the grandstand.

Out-of-state participants in the day-long program will include Lorin Duemeland, of Bismarck, North Dakota, national president of the American Hereford association, and Miss Mary Ann Sellman, of Watrous, New Mexico, vice president of the American Junior Hereford association.

Also on the program is another national figure — John Guthrie, of Porterville, president of the American Cattlemen's association.

Invited to the field day are 4-H club members and Future Farmers from throughout California, also all interested adults. A plaque will go to the 4-H or FFA judging team from the greatest distance, and some 1,000 visitors are expected to attend the event to witness demonstrations, listen to talks related to the Hereford cattle industry, and to participate in judging contests.

A free lunch will be served at noon, hosted by the Acehi Hereford ranch and the Porterville chamber of commerce; an official welcome will be extended by Porterville Mayor Aubrey M. Lumley.

Also assisting with the lunch will be the Paul Bunyan restaurant, donation of coffee; Sunbeam bakery, donation of rolls; members of the Tulare County Cow Belles, serving; and Vernon Gill, beans cook.

A Hereford judging contest will be a feature of the morning program.

gram, with four classes of breeding animals, one class of fat steers, and one class of show steer projects set up.

Official judges will be George Strathearn, Chowchilla, commercial Hereford breeder; Tom McCord, Fresno State college; and Ray Thalman, Santa Barbara, manager of Foley Farms. Placings and oral reasons will be given by the judges prior to the noon lunch.

Also on the morning program (Continued On Page 12)

GLADYS COOPER HEREFORD IS JUDGING PRIZE

PORTERVILLE — A prize worth working for will be offered to the member of the California Junior Hereford association who places highest in a judging contest that will be a feature of the Junior Hereford Association Field day at the Porterville fair grounds, Saturday.

Mrs. Gladys Cooper, of Tipton, owner of the famous Cooper Herefords, will present an outstanding Hereford heifer to the junior association member who places highest in the contest.

A number of trophies, plaques and pins will be awarded in 4-H and Future Farmer judging classes, also to winners in the adult division. The Hereford judging contest is set to begin at 9:45 a.m.

ATTACKING WHILE there is still time is the strategy of personnel in the offices of the Tulare County Agricultural commissioner and the Extension service in a fight against Alligator weed that has shown up in ditches at Porterville and Visalia, presenting a serious threat to agriculture — and home yards — if not eradicated. Top photos show a typical, massive growth of the weed in the Pioneer ditch along Fourth street in Porterville, also a typical plant; right center, Bob Dunbar and Jim Gilley, of the county agricultural commissioner's office, and Farm Advisor Vince Schweers put in a test plot on Porter slough, using carbon bisulphide as an injection into the soil; left center, Schweers and Dunbar check an Alligator weed patch under a black polyethylene tarp that had covered the weeds since June 1. With estimated temperatures of 150 degrees or more through the summer, and with no light or oxygen, weed runners were "cooked" white, but, lower left, when a gash was cut in the tarp, the Alligator weeds started to grow right through. Bottom, W. A. Cunningham, Deputy Agricultural commissioner, checks Alligator weed growing up a ditch bank just below Murry park in Porterville. (Farm Tribune photos)

IT'S THE TREND THAT COUNTS

Three important elements of politics should be kept firmly in mind when a voter appraises candidates and elections:

1. Regardless of who is elected, nothing will change over night; 2. Trend is the all-important factor in a political administration; 3. Political parties that have been in power should be held responsible for their statements prior to election and to their actions while in power.

Point No. 1 should be obvious and is most certainly proved by long-time experience. An exception might — and has — developed when a major crisis of some sort is at hand, but in general movement of affairs of state, changes are not sudden.

Because of this, point No. 2 is perhaps the most basic aspect of politics. Around this point of trend evolves political philosophies of the party in power, legislation implementing these policies, and the impact of legislation up and down the line on we the people.

Point No. 3 is the most easily forgotten reality of politics. Political parties espouse platforms and plans, candidates make promises and pledges, a great whirl of emotional harranging is often created, then comes the election. After that comes forgetfulness, all too often political parties and political candidates ignore their pledges, and we the people could care less.

Now, let's put this all together for the November 8 general election. On one hand we the people have a great society package wrapped up by the Johnson and Brown administrations, in fact it sometimes looks like a Charlie McCarthy routine as Brown jumps when Johnson speaks.

If you like what's in this package — more taxes, tight money, a breakdown in law enforcement occasioned by silly court decision, increasing national and state budgets, more centralized control in virtually every phase of living, the new philosophy of civil disobedience, the handling of the Watts situation, the turning of welfare to career status, a concentration of power at the vari-

SENATOR HOWARD WAY IS ENDORSED BY HIS OPPONENT'S HOME-TOWN NEWSPAPER

EXETER — Senator Howard Way of Tulare county has won the endorsement of the Merced Sun-Star, a daily newspaper published in Merced, home city of Senator Way's opponent, James A. Cobey.

After calling attention to the editorial in a front page article, the newspaper gave unqualified support of Senator Way's campaign on its editorial page.

"While we are reluctant to suggest Merced county constituents vote for someone other than a candidate from their own county," the editorial said, "Sen. Way has demonstrated he is dedicated, honest and fully capable of championing the political philosophy we prefer.

"Senator Way is, we feel, an intelligent, hard-working, full-time legislator who has a sound knowledge of the problems of this area."

The editorial then cited Senator Way's record in the field of agriculture and water resources.

"It is in the area of water resources that we have a difference with Sen. Way's Democratic opponent, State Sen. James A. Cobey of Merced", the newspaper concluded. "While he was chairman of the Senate's water resources committee, Sen. Cobey accepted employment as legal counsel for a Missouri corporation seeking additional payments from the State of California for contract work in the water program."

"This, we still contend, demonstrated a lack of responsibility to the people of California on the part of Sen. Cobey. In our opinion it was a definite conflict of interest in which an elected representative of the people was acting for those on the other side of a legal battle."

The editorial closed by calling attention to Sen. Way's membership on Senate committees "of vital importance to his district", agriculture, water resources, natural resources and social welfare.

FARM EXPENSE CONTINUES UP, PROFIT DOWN

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Farm production expenses in the United States totaled $31 billion in 1965, compared to $25 billion in 1957-59, however the prices farmers pay for supplies, labor and equipment have risen faster than the overall cost of living, resulting in less net even with generally higher farm prices in the market.

And in spite of national administration attempts to make farmers the whipping boys for increased retail food prices, facts of the case are that farmers, on an average, now receive only 39 cents out of each consumer dollar spent for food — and that figure has tended to slip downward a bit through the years since World War II.

A gas dryer can save you something on installation

(up to $150.<sup>00</sup>)

That's a lot of money. And it's possible because, with a gas dryer, no special wiring is ever necessary.

Operating cost? Less than 2¢ a load in a gas dryer. Compare that to what it costs to run the other kind of dryer. It's a difference that can really add up. In its lifetime, a gas dryer could save you enough to pay for itself.

"OUR WELFARE PROGRAM MUST BE REFORMED"

"None of us want to deprive the genuinely needy of the basic essentials of life. However, we must find ways to remove those who can work from the welfare rolls. Mis-use of the welfare program must stop. California must expand its programs to provide job opportunities and training for the unemployed. Reform of the welfare program is necessary to reduce the heavy burden on our taxpayers."

PLEASANT VIEW 4-H CONDUCTS BUSINESS MEET

PLEASANT VIEW — Filling out enrollment cards was the highlight of the Pleasant View 4-H club October meeting, under direction of the club's new community leader, Bob Dunbar.

Mr. Dunbar is taking over from Roy Baxley who has been community leader for the club for 27 years.

A new home has been found for the meetings of the club, which includes members of the Woodville and Pleasant View school districts, the Poplar Methodist church, the second Monday night of each month.

The Chuck Wagon breakfast was discussed; Kathleen Souza, president of the club, introduced all new members present and some of the new leaders. Mrs. A. P. Holtzman and Mrs. Richard Callison will be in charge of the sewing projects this year.

4-H AWARDS TO COUNTY CLUB MEMBERS

VISALIA — Tulare county has three winners in this year's 4-H Club Recognition and Awards Program with honors going to 43 California club members in 32 project and related fields.

Tulare county winners were: Betty Dutto, of Waukena, leadership; Helen Petersen, Columbine, home improvement; and Rodney Stephens, Orosi, poultry.

These county winners will join other California winners in a trip to the National 4-H Club congress, in Chicago, November 27 - December 1, and their records will be considered for the regional and national honors that include nearly 200 scholarships.

WHAT'S DOING?

A recent porpoise-to-porpoise long distance telephone call combined communications technology with marine biology. Participants in the conversation were "Speedy," a trained porpoise at Marineland of the Pacific and "Splash," his counterpart at Marineland of Florida. The two porpoises squeaked, chirped and whistled to each other over the 2,500 miles of telephone lines that separated them. Each listened intently to the other, with only occasional interruptions. Fortunately, a porpoise is a mammal, so no one can accuse me of telling a fish story.

43 years ago this month, the World Series baseball games were first broadcast on radio—from New York's Yankee Stadium and the Polo Grounds. Then, as now, the broadcasts traveled from the ballpark to the radio station over telephone lines.

When you're going out for the evening, here are a few suggestions that may help both you and the babysitter relax. Write down the names of the places you're going, the phone numbers, and the approximate times you'll be there. Have emergency numbers, including the family doctor's, written down also. Then—having taken these precautions, a night out can be more pleasurable.

Mark the date—November 8. (That's just an early reminder that voting day's not too far away.)

If you're planning to move, remember—you can stop your phone service here and start it there—anywhere in the Bell System—with one simple call to your Porterville Service Representative. Call her at our Business Office, 784-0400 and she'll handle all the arrangements, whether you're moving across town or across the country. Hope our Easy Move Plan really does help make your move a little easier.

We Only Heard

By BILL RODGERS

COMMENT OF Porterville High Football Coach Sim Iness the morning after another one-point win, this one over the Foothill Trojans of Bakersfield, "Man, I feel like I'm 97 years old."

IF YOU have been hearing about the mass pile-up of mail in post offices at Chicago, St. Louis, Cincinnati, San Francisco, and other cities, forget it, and take a look at the Porterville P.O. where stacks of sacks are piled around the back door, and postal employees are fighting a losing battle as more sacks come in before those already in can be worked. As we get the story the breakdown in mail delivery — it's third class that isn't getting through so far — has resulted from an economy move in Washington, starting with the President, that appears to have turned out as false economy. Directives say no more overtime, no hiring of new help, little if any filling of vacancies. So, the Porterville postoffice is running behind at the rate of about 24 man hours per day — at least — and, as the old folks used to say, it looks like things will get worse before they get better. . . . In the big cities postmasters are starting to ask permission to burn stacked-up third class mail, but in Porterville there is talk around the P.O., facetiously, of course, that maybe everyone can just move out and leave it there. . . . The office will be moved back into the remodeled and enlarged permanent building from its present temporary location shortly after the first of the month, according to present plans.

OUT POPLAR way folks are talking about the great ticket-selling team of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Buda, who are working on the Harvest Festival dinner that will be served Saturday afternoon by the Poplar Methodist church. Seems that the Budas, as of Monday, had sold 120 tickets — Lorraine 116, Frank four. . . . It's a great team and due for even greater greatness. Lorraine is still working. . . . And speaking of Frank or to Frank, How about that reunion of the old Porterville Reds? We've been planning it for 10 years and nothing has happened. Maybe we better put Lorraine in charge.

SPEAKING BEFORE a luncheon meeting, Friday, arranged by the Legislative committee of the Porterville chamber of commerce, State Senator James Cobey took credit for just about everything in California except conflict of interest, including, among other things, the state budget, the welfare program, the state water plan generally, the East Side project specifically, and the Mineral King road. While he spoke loudly enough to be clearly heard inside the room, it is likely that he would not want to be heard too far on the outside, certainly not as far as Sacramento, for, as everyone knows, Governor E. G. Brown (but not for long) is responsible for everything in California, particularly the Mineral King road, and it was E.G.B., not Cobey, who invented water. . . . As for an obvious conflict of interest in representing the Frazier-Davis Construction company of St. Louis in its attempt to settle a claim against the State of California for $3,000,000 while he, Cobey, was a State Senator, Cobey sidestepped like any adroit and loquacious attorney would be expected to do, but he failed to explain how he can represent the People of California as a Senator, and at the same time represent a firm with a claim against the People of California as an attorney — and serve both sides sincerely and with complete honesty. . . . If the Senator cared to ask us, we could explain for him. He can't. . . . And we would further say that in our capacity as an elected official we would not trust ourselves in a situation such as Senator Cobey put himself into, and if we wouldn't trust ourselves, we sure don't trust Cobey, even if he did invent water, or was that EGB?

"Whether a man winds up with a nest egg or a goose egg depends on the chick he married."

ALLIGATOR WEED

ture that infested farm lands might well become economically unusable.

Just how Alligator weed got into the Pioneer ditch and into the Mill Creek system is not known, however, a rather plausible story in so far as the Pioneer is concerned is that years ago Alligator weed was planted in a lily pond at Murry park by someone who thought it was a pretty water plant. (which it is)

About 10 years ago the lily pond, located on the edge of the Pioneer ditch, was torn out, plants from the pond were dumped into and along the ditch — and the weed took root and started to spread

It was not really noticed until the last three or four years, and it was not identified until December of 1965. Bob Dunbar, who is working on control out of the county agricultural commissioner's office, and Schweers believed that prior to construction of Success dam, when the ditch dried up early each summer and stayed dry, the Alligator weed survived, since it will withstand great drought, but did not spread rapidly. However, with water in the ditch now for the greater part of the year, the weed is growing and spreading at a tremendous rate.

A native of South America, the Alligator weed is a serious pest on agricultural lands in the southern United States. No method of killing the weed has been found for that area, it is only knocked down, and land farmed between growths — or land is abandoned — after it takes over.

Its only other known distribution in California is in the Rio Hondo, and downstream in the Los Angeles river from El Monte to Long Beach, and a spot infection in the nearby San Gabriel river.

However, in the Rio Hondo area where it has been spread to home yards in fill dirt it has become a most disagreeable yard weed pest.

Along the Pioneer ditch the weed can be found moving up the banks and out away from the water. Schweers believes that it would do well if it ever got established in irrigated fields, or yards, consequently the battle is on to eradicate it now.

But this is not simple. When the weed was identified, method

BOB WILEY for Sheriff headquarters opened last Thursday evening on Porterville's Main street, with above photo showing some of the people attending, from left: Arlin Morris;

Wilbur Dennis, co-chairman for Wiley in the southeastern Tulare county area, with Loren Schmid; Vernon Gill; Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Wiley, of Kingsburg, parents of Bob Wiley, Mrs.

Wiley and their two daughters; Truman Clevenger, county chairman for Wiley; Roy Langston; Schmid; "Doc" Long; and Keith Wells. (Farm Tribune photo) of killing was not known, so experimental work started. Leaf sprays only burned the leaves and the plants came back strong; some soil fumigants worked, others did not; showing the most promise now, out of 15 chemicals tested, are sodium chlorate, dicamba, and diuron.

Kramex, which can be legally used below ditch water line USDA and Federal Food and Drug and Drug regulations, will apparently kill Alligator weed, however 133 pounds seems indicated per acre, compared to about 50 pounds for "tough" weeds in the Tulare county area, and four pounds for general weed control.

On this basis, control of Alligator weed seems indicated per acre, compared to about 50 pounds for "tough" weeds in the Tulare county area, and four pounds for general weed control. (Continued On Page 10)

COMMITTEE WORKING FOR REELECTION OF SENATOR HOWARD WAY ON NOV. 8

PORTERVILLE — The Porterville campaign committee to re-elect Senator Howard Way is headed by a chairman and three co-chairmen who are planning its activities between now and the November 8 election.

Edward (Ted) Cornell, rancher, and a leader in educational affairs in the community, is chairman of the committee. Cornell is chairman of the Porterville High School and College District board of trustees and is president of the Tulare County School Trustees association.

Serving with him as co-chairmen are Barney Richardson, Porterville businessman and chairman of the Porterville Merchants' committee, and Ray Hutchinson, rancher who has been prominent in community and farming activities.

Co-Chairman for women is Mrs. Myrtle Wiens, member of the high school and college board of trustees. She is president of the Porterville chapter of the American Association of University Women and a winner of the "Friend to Education" award of the Tulare County chapter of the California Teachers association.

Virgil Lowe, a Farm Bureau director and civic leader in Springville is chairman for the Springville area.

Walter Schultz, a lifelong rancher in the Terra Bella area is chairman for that district.

Other members of the Way committee for Porterville are Hal A. Campbell, City Councilman William Benson, Ralph A. Purcelli, Wy Grier, Harry Lowe, John G. (Jack) Lucey, Joe H. Crabtree, Mrs. Ethel Prestage, Mrs. Judy Barnhart, Mrs. Chris Lallanne, Joe Faure, Cyrille Faure, City Councilmen Marty Martin and Bill Rodgers, and John Moore.

"Many of us on the committee worked for the election of Senator Way in 1962", Cornell said. "Our faith in him has been justified by the fact that he has been a strong advocate for his district in Sacramento. It is highly important that under reapportionment he be sent back to the Senate to represent this heartland of California agriculture."

Senator Way is seeking re-election to the 15th Senate District which includes his home county of Tulare as well as Madera, Merced, Mariposa, Mono and Inyo counties, and a portion of Fresno county.

A LOCAL Blood Bank account for children was set up last week with a surplus of blood that was donated - and will be donated - to Johnny Scott, of Porterville, who underwent successful open heart surgery last August at the Valley Children's Hospital in Fresno. Volunteers from Fresno gave seven pints; thirty-four persons gave blood at Porterville in September to repay the blood bank for Johnny - and that left a surplus of 12 pints, with still more pledged. So, under designation as the John Scott Children's account, blood will be available for children in an emergency, with one call being met already for Danny Martin, 6, who recently lost a leg in a farm accident. Photo shows, from left, Virgil Lowe, Porterville chamber of commerce blood bank chairman, receiving the official paper from Johnny setting up the children's account, while Don Frary, president, and Allan Coates, manager, of the Porterville chamber of commerce, look on. (Farm Tribune photo)

California cotton crop this season is now estimated at 1,400,000 bales, down 290,000 bales from 1965 production.

One thing the politicians haven't declared as their own doing is the nice weather we've been enjoying. Possibly they've overlooked this as a political issue and for that we are fortunate. We are even more fortunate that they can't do more than talk about it even if they do discover it.

To go along with these good gardening days we have just received a shipment of camellias and azaleas. This is not a factory close out, a car load special, a clean up of last years models, nor is it necessary to purchase green stamps. This is just a nice selection of camellia and azalea plants which we intentionally ordered to trade for money. We realize this is an old fashioned way of conducting a business but that's the way it is.

At the same time we would like to sell you some bulbs to brighten your spring garden. Many of these are from Holland, some from the Pacific Northwest, and others from Southern California. Like many other things sold locally you couldn't go any where in the world and buy better. In fact the only things you need to go out of town for are fresh oranges and grapefruit. We understand these are available back east somewhere.

We're still on "E" Street just North of Olive and open Sundays from noon until four. Come as you are.

What makes Germain's WL501 Alfalfa the best for San Joaquin Valley growers?

Experience like this:

"I have never seen an alfalfa come out of the ground like WL501. It was up and growing before the other one I planted even appeared. WL501 had the seedling vigor, quality and production to suit me - plus the pea aphid resistance!"

Clarence Avila
Lydia Avila & Sons
Hanford, Calif.

"I get a premium for my WL501 alfalfa and save money doing it. When aphid is a problem, WL501 really pays off by eliminating costly spraying for pea aphid. I've compared it to other alfalfas, but its good yield and high quality make it my No. 1 choice!"

George Verburg
Verburg Bros.
Hanford, Calif.

"Germain's WL501 out-produced all other varieties for me for the past two years!"

Herluf Fries
Raisin City, Calif.

PLANT GERMAIN'S WL501...YOU'LL PROFIT FROM THE EXPERIENCE!

Germain's WL501 is available now. See your local Germain's Dealer to assure your planting requirements.

You can have these experiences... plant Germain's WL501!

Pea Aphid Resistance - the first commercially developed western variety that has proven resistance to the green pea aphid!

High Yield - Grower and University trials in California show Germain's WL501's superiority over Moapa!

Fast Regrowth - Starts fast and maintains full production throughout the balance of its long growing season!

Mildew Resistance - Germain's WL501 will preserve its leaves and their protein because it has mildew resistance!

Outstanding Quality - Extra leafiness in combination with very fine stems provides Germain's WL501 with the quality every San Joaquin Valley grower demands!

Spotted Alfalfa Aphid Resistance - Germain's WL501 has achieved an excellent rating in spotted aphid resistance in University trials!

Non-Dormancy - Has the proven ability to continue its growth late in the year and show vigorous development in early spring!

Longevity - Provides a longevity of 3 to 5 years of strong and vigorous stands under sound cultural management.

CALIFORNIA SPEAKS

MAYOR SAM YORTY, L.A.
— "It's politicians running around making promises they can't keep to people in the ghettos that have created an intolerable situation for the police."

ALFRED C. WILLIAMS, S. F.
— "Twentieth Century man cannot go on disagreeing much longer. He desperately needs to find a consensus before he finds himself embroiled in World War III."

HARRY PORTER, La Habra
— "Truth pollution is a greater threat to contemporary society than air and water pollution."

BAYLES MANNING, Stanford law school dean
— "The legal process is the mirror image of society."

WEED

tor weed could run some $500 an acre — and it would not be single-shot control, but a continuous process that could extend over a period of perhaps 10 - 12 years.

"That's why it's so important to get this weed now while it is still confined to a relatively small area, actually to about 20 miles of ditch system", says Schweers and Dunbar.

Indicating magnitude of the Alligator weed problem is the fact that Dr. Richard Yeo, of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Les Haworth and Murray Pryor, of the State Department of Agriculture, and Jim McHenry, of the University of California at Davis, have been working on Alligator weed control since the weed was discovered in Tulare county.

McHenry has been planting weed roots in sand cultures at Davis, allowing plants to establish themselves for about two months, then testing various fumigants. Those that appear to be most toxic are being field tested in Tulare county.

Control test plots have been established in the Pioneer ditch and in Mill creek since about March 1 of this year, however, not much was said about the newly-discovered Alligator weed.

"After all", says Schweers, "we knew we had a serious pest but we didn't know what to do about it, so there wasn't much we could say. Now, however, we believe that we do have control methods that can be recommended, so we are ready to go to work."

Just what program of eradication will be used has not been determined, but it is common for a problem of this kind to be approached on a cost basis of one-third borne by the state, a third by the county, and a third by landowners.

All persons connected with the Alligator weed study emphasize that steps must be taken now, while the weed is in a position to be controlled; that if it is allowed to spread, it will become a most serious economic threat to agriculture.

As for the Alligator weed itself, plants are perennial from seed — and its roots are deeply penetrating, thick tap-roots. Stems are hollow, prostrate, rooting at the nodes in wet soil, or floating on the surface of water. The plant will live in water alone, or root down rapidly when stems touch the ground.

It produces a white flower, however seed production is not known in California. Its growth on water is so heavy that it will cut off ditch flow, and on land so thick that it smothers out all other growth. In appearance it is somewhat similar to native species of water primrose or yellow waterweed.

Rice crop in California this season is estimated at a record 18,512,000 bags.

POPLAR FESTIVAL SATURDAY

POPLAR — Entertainment, a dinner, and a special religious service are planned for the Poplar Harvest Festival that is set for the Poplar Methodist church Saturday afternoon and evening, according to Ray Hutchinson, general chairman.

Festival dinner will be served in the church, 3:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m.; cooked foods and hand work will be on sale; a country store will be in operation; a White Elephant sale is planned, and other concession-type booths will be set up.

The event will be concluded with a Union Worship service in the sanctuary of the Poplar Methodist church at 8 p.m. All churches are invited to participate in the event, according to the Rev. Claude A.
Brown, pastor of the Poplar Methodist church and secretary of the festival.

Speakers at the religious service will be: The Rev. Riggie W. Griffin, Pentecostal Church of God in Woodville; and Rev. William L.
Dycus of the Oneness Church in Poplar. A. T. Willbank, of the Nazarene church in Poplar, will lead singing.

RONALD REAGAN TO SPEAK SATURDAY AT ADOLPH GILL RANCH BARBECUE

EXETER — Several thousand voters — Republicans and Democrats — will be on hand Saturday when Ronald Reagan, candidate for governor of California, is honored at a barbecue on the Adolph Gill ranch, 1342 Rocky Hill drive, Exeter.

Serving of a barbecue beef dinner will start at 6:30 p.m., preceded by a social hour starting at 5 p.m. Carnival games and special entertainment are planned thruout the late afternoon and evening.

Candidates planning to attend the event with Reagan will include Bob Finch, who is running for Lt. Governor of California;
Houston Flournoy, controller; Mrs.
Ivy Baker Priest, treasurer; Spencer Williams, attorney general;
Bob Mathias, congress; Incumbent Howard Way, State Senate; and Incumbent Gordon Duffy, State Assembly.

Also expected to attend is Dr.
Gaylord Parkinson, of San Diego, chairman of the California Republican State Central committee.

The barbecue, and program, will be covered by four television stations, KPFE-TV, KMJ-TV, and KJEO-TV, out of Fresno, and KERO-TV, out of Bakersfield.

About 4,000 invitations have

Entertainment chairman, Harley Baker states that several spe-

JUNIOR ASSN. FIELD DAY

will be M. H. McDonald, American Hereford association field man, and Kenneth Vaughn, American Polled Hereford association field man, who will discuss "Selecting Modern Herefords".

Lovell Kuykendall, of the American Hereford association, will speak on "Selecting Show Prospects". A weight-guessing contest is also programmed for the morning.

Afternoon discussion will include "You Have A Head Start", by Duemeland; "The American Junior Hereford association", Miss Sellman; "Your Part in the Hereford Industry", by Thomas Merrill, Salinas, a director in the American Hereford association; and "Grooming and Showing a Champion", by Ron Hutchings, of Chico, and Phil Grigsby (a former Ducor boy) of San Luis Obispo.

Awards will be presented at 3:15 p.m. by Clarence Dudley, of Etna, president of the California Hereford association, and by Bud Sanguinette, of Stockton, president of the California Polled Hereford association.

Members of the California Junior Hereford association will hold a business session during the afternoon, and will elect directors and officers.

A special feature of the afternoon will be selection of a queen of the California Junior Hereford association, with Bob Earnest, of Chico, in charge.

Master of ceremonies for the field day program will be Carson Esten III, of Burney, president of the California Junior Hereford association. Special guests will be introduced by Eileen Wilcox, of Anderson; association activities will be outlined, and new members introduced by Jeanne King, of Oakdale.

The Old Timer

"Most of us spend too much time running from something that isn't even after us."

R. J. OWEN, left, shows avocado production on his ranch north of Porterville to Nikos P. Zamenes, president of the American-Hellenic Development Corp., of San Francisco, and Greece. Zamenes, who was born in San Francisco, is securing avocado bud wood from the Owen ranch to use in his nurseries in Arcadia and Messenias, and, possibly, on the Isle of Crete. He is also developing walnuts, almonds, cherries and grapes on land in Greece. Zamenes' father, Pano, studied law at the University of California, farmed for many years in the Modesto area where he was known as the "melon king," and also published a Greek-English daily newspaper with national circulation in America. Zamenes states that "Greece could be the California of Europe" in so far as agriculture is concerned, but says that the country is about 50 years behind America in commercial farming. One problem, he says, is that land stays in a family for generations, and is gradually broken down until a man may own only an acre or less, making some sort of consolidation necessary before commercial farm production can really get going. His organization is working with the government of Greece to improve the farm economy, and American-Hellenic Development Corp. is now negotiating to take over Pema Rain distribution not only in Greece but throughout Europe.
